

BANS INAUGURAL EXPENSE

HARDING BLOCKS PROGRAM FOR ELABORATE CEREMONY

In the Interests of National Thrift," the President-Elect Considers
It Timely to Save the Many, Many Thousands
For an Old Time Inaugural Pageant

APPRECIATES GENEROSITY OF PEOPLE

Executive Objection Is Made Known Soon After Passage in the House of Bill Appropriating Fifty Thousand Dollars for Erection of Huge Grandstand on White House Lawn

Marion, O., Jan. 10.—In the interest of national thrift, President-elect Harding tonight requested officials arranging for his inauguration to abandon all plans for an inaugural ceremony.

In a telegram to E. D. McLean, chairman of the inaugural committee at Washington, Mr. Harding declared he preferred to simply take the oath of office, deliver a brief address and then take up the duties of his office. He said it would make his position a very unhappy one if the outlay for an elaborate inaugural ceremony created the impression of extravagance.

At the same time the President-elect telegraphed Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, in charge of the congressional end of the plans suggesting that the proposal to erect stands on the capitol grounds for the event be abandoned. This proposal has been the subject of heated debate in congress, with some members severely objecting to the use of public funds for such a purpose.

Favors Wholesome Example of Economy.

Mr. Harding's telegram to Mr. McLean follows:

"I beg, respectfully, to suggest to your committee the complete abandonment of all plans for an inaugural celebration.

"Heretofore I have been very reluctant to express my personal views to your committee, because I knew of the cherished regard in our national capital for this quadrennial event, and in the generosity of the citizens of the District in making provision for it. You were good enough to accept the chairmanship at my request and you and your associates have won my lasting gratitude for the time and labor you have given in preparation.

"However, if it is becoming to express my preference, I wish you and your committee to know that the impression of extravagant expenditure and excessive cost would make me a very unhappy participant. I know full well that the government outlay is relatively small and that the larger expenditure comes from the generous contributions of district citizenship, but it is timely and wholesome to practice the utter denial of public expenditure where there is no real necessity and it will be a wholesome example of economy and thrift if we save the many, many thousands which the inaugural celebration will call from the private purse of those attending.

"I have sent a message of like purport to the congressional committee and expressed the wish that no preparations or outlay of any kind be made. It will be most pleasing to me to be simply sworn in, speaking briefly my plights of faith to the country, and turn at once to the work that will be calling."

"Again expressing my gratitude to you, and your assistants and to the generous people of Washington, I am,

"Very Respectfully,

Telegraphed Senator Knox:

The following message was sent to Senator Knox:

"I have been reluctant to intrude my views relating to inaugural plans, but I cannot longer remain silent without embarrassment and misunderstanding which I had rather avoid. Please convey to your committee my sincere wish for the simplest inaugural program consistent with the actual requirements in taking the oath of office and the utterance of a fitting address. I very respectfully request that Congress will not appropriate and that your committee will not expend any fund whatever.

"I am familiar with the custom of erecting a platform and providing seats for guests who witness the ceremony at the capitol, but it will be most pleasing to me to have this ceremony take place within the capitol or on the east porch with its stately simplicity, without a single extra preparation for the occasion. This will require no expense and we shall be joint participants in an example of economy as well as simplicity which may be helpful in the process of seeking our normal way once more.

"I have addressed a message of like purport to the inauguration committee, asking the abandonment of the parade and ball and hope for an acceptance of the introduced suggestion in the spirit which has inspired it.

"Warren G. Harding."

Hope for Some Parade.

The President-elect made his decision after conferences with several of his party leaders, to whom he expressed vigorously his repugnance to any show of extravagance. The need for national economy is one of which

VALERA ENDS SILENCE ON IRELAND'S STATUS

Dublin, Ireland, Jan. 10.—Eamon de Valera, the Irish Republican leader, broke his silence today with a formal statement vigorously denying the alleged German-Irish plot against Great Britain and attacking the government's "white paper" issued Saturday concerning such a plot.

Elect's decision came only a few hours after congress, through action of the house, completed enactment of a bill appropriating $50,000 for expenses incident to the inauguration. As the measure has passed both houses of congress, just what course congressional leaders will take in respect to it was in doubt tonight. In the usual course of procedure the bill would go to the White House tomorrow, but the suggestion was made tonight that Republican leaders in either the senate or house might move to reconsider the vote of their body and thereby withdraw the bill.

Disbanding of committees appointed by Chairman McLean, membership on which includes hundreds of persons not only in Washington, but elsewhere, is expected to begin immediately. Upwards of $200,000 had been pledged by Washington citizens and business men toward the expense of the inaugural celebration.

Voted Grand Stand Fund.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Five members of the house, one from President-elect Harding's home state, and the other from the south, voted today to cut down the $50,000 appropriation for erection of a grand stand at the capitol from which congress, as in years gone by, braved the bleak March weather during the big outdoor inaugural ceremony.

Against this handful, 285 members voted for the funds, so that the long established custom might still prevail. The snow was clinging to the first pile of lumber, stacked in orderly array outside, when the debate in the house started, coincident with another flurry of talk in the senate on a proposal to eliminate this year all expenses and ostentatious inaugural show while so many people in Europe are starving.

By its action the house made possible the carrying out of the part of congress in the celebration. It has nothing to do with any payment downtown or any inaugural ball, against which there has been protests on the ground that the building desired for the night's festivities is needed for the proper conduct of the government's pension business. Senator Borah Republican, Idaho, leader in the fight for simplicity, indicated that he would keep it up in an effort to prevent other appropriations.

Nobody except congress and its friends will sit in the grand stand at the capitol, the 10,000 seats being equally distributed on a man basis, without regard to party affiliation or length of legislative service. Representative Blanton of Texas hurled a firebrand into the usual routine proceedings by protesting against the expenditure, but on the first vote he stood alone in support of an amendment making the amount $10,000. Not many members and their families could be seated in a stand costing so little.

CAUTIONS AGAINST FORDNEY MEASURE

Enactment of Fordney Bill Would Breed Contempt Witnesses Tell
Senate Committee

Washington, Jan. 10.—Warning that passage of the Fordney emergency tariff bill would lead to retaliation measures and would breed unfriendliness to American trade among foreign nations was given today by witnesses before the senate finance committee.

As a result of the testimony, it was expected tonight that members of the United States tariff commission would be asked for information on the question.

Discussion of the possibility of retaliation brought from Chairman Penrose the comment that "it is the first time I have heard the question of probable retaliation so clearly stated."

Predictions of retaliatory measures also were coupled today with strong opposition and insistence requests for amendments to certain sections. Louisiana sugar growers, led by Senators Ramsdell and J. Gay of that state, appealed for protection of cane sugar, while Bermuda producers of potatoes and onions, through their trade representatives in New York, opposed inclusion of the two commodities under a tariff levy as now is provided.

MISSING WOMAN A SUICIDE.

Rochester, Jan. 10.—The body of Mrs. Madea A. Carpenter, 44, wife of Perry A. Carpenter, a teacher in West High school, who had been missing since last Saturday, was found in the barge canal late today. She is believed to have committed suicide. She was said to have been made despondent by illness.

MATTICE EXPECTS AERONAUTS TODAY

American Naval Party Camped
Last Night on Skunk Island, a
Day's Journey Away

Mattice, Ont., Jan. 10.—The three American naval balloonists, who are "mushing" their way back to civilization from Moose Factory, Ontario, where they found shelter after one of the most thrilling adventures in the annals of the American navy, will arrive here tomorrow afternoon. They are in camp tonight at Skunk Island, a day's journey from Mattice.

Information to this effect, was received here late today from Earl Trowse, one of the guides sent out in advance by newspaper men awaiting their arrival. The three officers are reported to be in good physical condition.

The aeronauts' party will leave Skunk Island early tomorrow morning and is expected in Mattice sometime after 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Trowse was informed of the proximity of the Americans by W. R. Clarke, who headed the advance party. He started at once for Mattice, travelling 115 miles in the darkness over the Missinabi river and taking five hours for the trip. The trail, he said, is in fairly good shape.

Mr. Clarke and Basile Rooney, the third member of the advance party, followed Trowse into Mattice about an hour later. They had not seen the Americans, but were told by an Indian, who had pushed on ahead of the Americans to break the trail, that the aeronauts were in camp tonight at Skunk Island with some Islanders, who made their homes there. The snow storm, which is reported to be heading this way, had not reached here at midnight. If it breaks within a few hours, Clarke said it was doubtful that the party would reach here before nightfall tomorrow.

FLAMES DESTROY VALUABLE RECORDS

Valuable Census Data Dating Back to 1790 Lost in Department of Commerce Fire

Washington, Jan. 10.—Priceless census records, dating back to 1790, when the first enumeration of the United States was taken, were destroyed tonight in a fire of undetermined origin at the department of commerce. The records included figures from every census up to the present one and officials said it would be days before even an estimate of the damage could be given.

The blaze originated in the basement of the commerce building and five alarms quickly brought every piece of apparatus in downtown Washington to the scene and more than 20 lines of hose completed the damage done to the records by pouring tons of water through windows into vaults where the records were kept.

During the two and a half hours which firemen fought the blaze, three firemen were overcome by smoke and taken to the hospital. Among them was Frank Newman, recipient of the 1920 foster medal.

James Foster, a watchman in the building, who discovered the fire, said that he was making his rounds in the upper part of the eleven story structure and went down to the basement, tracing a smell of smoke he had noticed. He found the carpenter shop full of smoke.

With smoke pouring from the basement windows, firemen quickly broke them and turned streams of water in the vaults where the census records were kept.

According to T. J. Fitzgerald, chief clerk of the census bureau, records of the census of 1890 were kept stacked outside the vaults and these were totally destroyed by both fire and water. In the vaults were stacked aside for safekeeping records dating back to 1790 and ranged according to years up to 1910.

The 1920 records were kept on an upper floor and were not damaged.

Asked as to what damage the fire had done, Mr. Fitzgerald said that the actual fire loss was very slight, but "the records destroyed could not be replaced if we had the entire wealth of the United States at our disposal. There are no duplicates."

The records, Mr. Fitzgerald said, were used by the war department for draft data, by the internal revenue bureau, by the treasury department and often were consulted when citizenship rights were to be established.

ASKS ABOUT GERMAN SHIPS.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The shipping board is asked in a resolution by Senator Calder, Republican, New York, adopted today by the senate, to report whether the United States Mail Steamship company is permitted to steamship in other than American ships, and whether the company has been secured from the board. Senator Calder said he had heard the company intended to have the ships reconditioned in German yards.

CORNELL WINS ENGLISH FAVOR

Loses Cross Country Race Over
Rochampton Course, But Wins
International Collegiate Spirit

CONTEST WAS CLOSE

In Points, Result Was 26 to 29, But
Teams Were Even Closer Matched
Than Scores Indicate

New York, Jan. 10.—An international intercollegiate sporting contest in this country next spring appears certain as the result of the Cornell university cross country team's trip to England during the Christmas holidays. Word to this effect was brought back by Manager McGovern and Trainer Jack Moskley, who arrived here today with the seven Cornell runners who competed against the combined Oxford-Cambridge university team at Rochampton, England, on December 30.

Favor Return Visit.

McGovern stated the undergraduates and alumni of Cambridge university were ardently in favor of a return athletic visit to Cornell next spring. Both he and Coach Moskley were assured that if faculty permission could be obtained, an eight-oared crew or complete track and field team, or both, would be sent to Ithaca for participation in the annual spring day sports carnival usually held in May.

That English "varsity" sportsmen and statesmen are in favor of more international sporting contests between England and the United States was made evident to the Cornellians. Lord Desborough, Colonel Cantish, manager of the English Olympic team at Antwerp, and Dr. Wood, president of the Cambridge university Athletic council, all assured the American collegians they "would take their costs off and make it an annual affair."

Coach Moskley said the cross-country race was the best he had ever witnessed. All agreed after the contest, he added, that while Oxford-Cambridge won, 26 to 29, the two teams were even closer matched than the point score showed. He said:

Cornellians Enthusiastic.

"It was a wonderful experience in every way. Our men trained, ate and slept alongside our opponents. As a result during the race the best of feeling prevailed. When Captain Seagrave of the Cambridge team was beaten out by one of our runners, he gave him the directions for reaching the finish line, for our team had never been over the course. Captain Montague of Oxford got caught in a barbed wire fence, and a Cornell runner stopped and helped to pull him clear before going on. These were but two of a score of sportsmanlike acts that marked the running of the race. Our runners were invited to all parts of England for week-ends, made honorary guests at all London clubs and were quartered in the Prince of Wales' apartments at Oxford university. It will be hard for us to equal the many acts of courtesy shown when Cambridge comes to Cornell."

"The race itself demonstrated that the American collegian can hold his own against the best of English 'varsity' cross country runners and such races should be an annual feature. Mr. A. McInnes, the individual winner, is a runner of remarkable ability and could easily have held his own with the best of the distance runners at the Olympic games."

ENGLAND'S COMMERCIAL SHIP PROGRAM LEADS ALL OTHERS

New York, Jan. 10.—Great Britain now is building more commercial ships than all the rest of the world combined, said a statement issued here today by Lloyd's register of shipping. On reports received up to and including December 31, 1920, shipping under way in the United Kingdom amounted to 2,799,000 gross tons. In the United States it amounted to 1,216,999 tons. In all countries of the world 7,179,439 tons.

MILLIONS FOR HOOPER.

New York, Jan. 10.—The board of directors of the Knights of Columbus, at a meeting here today recommended that the undistributed balance of approximately $3,969,999 of the United War fund be turned over to Herbert Hoover's European relief council for the feeding of starving children in Europe.

FOUR PER CENT PROFIT PLAN.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Common carriers would be required to make rates after April 1 which would produce returns not exceeding four per cent on their aggregate investment under a bill introduced today by Senator Trammell, Democrat, Florida.

COLUMBIA DEFEATS PRINCETON.

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 10.—Columbia defeated Princeton here tonight, 24 to 20, in an intercollegiate basketball game.

PLEADS PROTECTION OF AMERICAN LABOR

Frank Morrison Urges Safeguards
Against Aliens Similar to Tariff
Laws, For Two Years

Washington, Jan. 10.—Protection for the American laborer from "foreign imports" on an equality with the protection accorded American products by tariff laws was asked of the senate immigration committee today by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Morrison asked that the position of the federation was that of straight-cut protection without any reservation, for a period of two years from alien labor.

"We object," said Mr. Morrison, "to throwing the doors wide open, flooding the American market with cheap European labor and denying the American worker the same protection you give his production under the tariff laws."

The federation secretary told committee that the reports just received from labor officials in forty-one cities showed the total number of unemployed in those places to be 1,519,272, and said he would not "dare estimate what the total of all cities would show."

"It is no time," Mr. Morrison continued, "for any man in the face of these figures to advocate the bringing of men from Europe and add them to the number of unemployed already here."

DENY O'CALLAGHAN PASSPORT WAIVER

Clash Develops Between State Department and Department of Labor Over Lord Mayor

Washington, Jan. 10.—Passport restrictions will not be waived by the state department to permit entrance to the United States of Daniel J. O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who on his arrival last week at Newport News as a stowaway and without a passport, was temporarily admitted on parole by order of the labor department.

The state department's decision, announced today by Acting Secretary Davis, brought forth the assertion by labor department officials that jurisdiction in the case still rested exclusively with the secretary of labor. This indicated a continuation of the controversy between the two departments which has been more or less apparent ever since the landing of the Cork lord mayor on American soil.

Secretary Davis, in making his announcement, said that he concurred in the opinion of the solicitor of his department, that there was no reason to make an exception in the case of O'Callaghan as regards admission without a passport. He said he was communicating his decision to Secretary of Labor Wilson and added the intimation that his department, acting under the wartime powers given the president to regulate the entry of aliens, might recommend that the department of justice be called upon to deport the Irish mayor.

Labor department officials asserted that Secretary Wilson did not recognize that the case of O'Callaghan had yet come within the jurisdiction of the state department, in as much as he had not yet formally referred it to Secretary Davis. Secretary Wilson had not yet begun his consideration of the case today and it was said that he would not take it under advisement until it had come to him through the regular channels of the department. At the state department it was said delay of the secretary of labor in rendering a decision after having paroled O'Callaghan would permit the Lord Mayor to accomplish his mission of recruiting before the commission of the committee of 104 investigating the Irish question regardless of whether he may be eventually deported.

WOOD URGES DISARMAMENT.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of an appropriation sub-committee, told the house today that the "United States should take immediate steps toward disarmament," without waiting for an agreement with other nations. "If we follow such a program," he said, "the sentiment of the rest of the world will be so aroused that other nations will follow in our wake."

NEW CUREFAN LAW.

Cork, Ireland, Jan. 10.—The military governor of Cork has advanced the curfew law in Cork from 10 o'clock to 9. This is due to the attack on the police at Parnell bridge last week.

CARLTON BARES CABLE 'SPYING'

Head of Western Union System
Tells of English Surveillance
Over American Cable Business

GETS ALL MESSAGES

Disturbed Conditions in Great Britain and Europe Occasioned
Such Permission, Witness Says

Washington, Jan. 10.—Charges that the British government exercises surveillance over American cable business, official as well as private, passing through the British Isles and that the state department had extended its controversy with the Western Union Telegraph and Cable company to bring in the Cuban government, came up today before a senate committee considering cable legislation.

Norman H. Davis, acting secretary of state, and Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union, conducted a cross cable argument over the Cuban allegation when Mr. Davis denied it. Chairman Kellogg ended the hearing by questioning Mr. Carlton as to the English practices. Clarence H. McKay, head of the Postal Telegraph Cable company, another witness, told the committee that English secret service activities were obtaining copies of all cable messages.

Mr. Carlton several times expressed reluctance to discuss the subject of English surveillance because "it would make trouble," but at last yielded.

"Ten days after messages have been transmitted," Mr. Carlton explained, "copies of them are turned over to the British secret service, which keeps them for a few hours, and then returns them. No exception is made, and the American official dispatches, like the dispatches to all other countries, to and from England, are included, but I have reason to believe that no examination is made of them. I have been assured that the official messages are not even inspected, but they are in the physical possession of the copies, while other messages are being inspected."

The orders for the surveillance were issued, Mr. Carlton explained, because of disturbed conditions in Great Britain and Europe. He indicated that other European countries took more complete control over American cable passing through their territories than did England.

Mr. Davis and President Carlton argued with considerable heat over the state department's opposition to the Western Union's attempted connection with the British cable system in the Barbadoes. Mr. Carlton declared the state department had "made threats to the Cuban government" to prevent the connection going through their island and that President Menocal now had before him the question of revoking a license already granted for a landing of the Barbadoes cable in Cuba.

"The state department has done nothing of the kind," Mr. Davis said, and President Carlton promptly broke in to characterize the statement as "diplomacy."

LUMBER INTERESTS NOW IN LIMELIGHT

General Investigation, Especially of Yellow Pine Industry, Is Being Planned

Washington, Jan. 10.—A general investigation by the department of justice of lumber interests with especial reference to the yellow pine industry of the south and a decision of the department to intensify its inquiry into the building materials situation particularly in connection with the Lockwood investigation in New York, were announced today for the purpose of determining if there have been violations of the Sherman antitrust act. Both investigations are being conducted separately according to Frank A. Neveker, assistant to the attorney general.

The investigation of the lumber interests have been under way some time and facts concerning it were made public coincident with a report to congress on the subject by the federal trade commission, which is assisting the department of justice in the investigations. The announcement of activity in connection with industries dealing in building materials, was made by Mr. Neveker after a conference with W. J. Rand, special assistant to the attorney general in charge of the building investigation in New York.

Mr. Rand's force, it was said at the department, will be increased to enable it to proceed "vigorously and expeditiously" in the work. Mr. Neveker, however, declined to name any specific industries to which attention would be directed, although he said the investigation with reference to several would be conducted simultaneously.

MULE BALKED AT EXECUTION

Obedient to the Last, Animal Compelled Buffalo Bill to Completely Empty His Revolver.

It was while serving as a scout under General Sheridan in his campaign against the Indians in western Kansas that Buffalo Bill, carrying dispatches, had to ride a government mule owing to the scarcity of horses. The mule broke away, and Cow had to walk 25 miles during the night with the animal just a foot or two away—out of reach.

"Well, when he got really and truly angry," says his widow, "didn't have the slightest temper in the world. And by the time the sun rose he was just about ten degrees hotter than fever heat in his attitude toward the mule. Suddenly, the soldiers in Fort Larned heard the sound of a shot about half a mile away. Then another and another and another. When they reached the place where the shooting had occurred they found Bill standing over a dead mule, cursing unmercifully.

"Boys," he said, "there's the toughest, meanest mule I ever saw in my life. He made me walk all night and I decided that he wouldn't ever do that to another fellow. So I executed him, and I'd be damned if I didn't take six shots to make him stop kicking."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE RISES VIGOROUSLY

Call Loans, on Other Hand, Decline to Six Per Cent, Lowest Rate in Weeks

New York, Jan. 10. — The market stages of today's stock market were characterized by a hesitant opening, general heaviness before noon, spectacular recoveries in several of the speculative issues during the intermediate period and irregular strength at the active close.

Attendant features included: a vigorous advance in foreign exchange, notably the British rate; decline of call loans to six per cent, the lowest figure in three weeks; and the December report of the United States Steel corporation, disclosing another severe decrease in unfilled tonnage.

Strength of foreign remittances, some of which rose to highest quotations in almost half a year, was based in part on reports that the British treasury has in contemplation a plan for refunding its extensive obligations in this country.

Oils, steels, equipments, motors and shippings, as typified by Mexican Petroleum, Houston Oil, Crucible, Baldwin, Pressed Steel Car, Studebaker and Atlantic Gulf, were the paramount features of the final hour. Early losses of two to six points gave way to gains of substantial proportions in most instances and full recoveries elsewhere.

There was only a moderate market for bonds, including the Liberty division and the general trend was most often indefinite.

Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

JUNGLE MONARCH "BIG GAME"

Tiger Can Always Be Relied On to Furnish Sport for the Most Adventurous Hunter.

The tiger is one variety of game which is in no danger of extermination. Tigers have been hunted for centuries. They furnished sport to the ancient Romans, both in the arena where they faced the gladiators and in the open field. Before that, they were the game of great Egyptian monarchs. It is doubtful whether primitive man was able to kill the tiger at all.

Today tigers are comparatively easy game for the wealthy sportsman who hunt them with the great double-barreled English rifles carrying express bullets. A great crowd of hunters usually assails at the sports and drives the tiger into the open, though occasionally he is killed by watching at the carcass of an animal he has killed. Occasionally a tiger kills a hunter, but not often. In India and also in Korea many unarmed and half-naked natives are killed by tigers every year. In the war between men and tigers it is hard to say which is winning.

Tigers are found in almost all parts of the continent of Asia, from the tropical jungles of India to the winnowing heights of the mountains in Siberia and northern China.

Beauty Contest in Africa.

The Africa and Orient Review, a South African newspaper, has started a beauty contest for dusky belles and already 200 entries have been received for the competition. The editor, Mr. Mohamed Ali, thus describes the negro face: "The eyes," he said, "should have the African expression, a soft, appealing look—an intangible dreaminess never seen in European eyes. The nose should be semi-anglican, slightly aquant at the bridge, and the lips somewhat thicker than those of the average European, a characteristic which I think gives solidity to the expression. The hair should, of course, be curly." Photographs of the competitors will be reproduced each month, and the readers of the journal will be asked to vote for the photograph they consider the most beautiful. The lady receiving the greatest number of votes to be given $500. The second prize is $250 and the third a watch bracelet.

World's Longest Car Ferry.

The new railway ferry line, which is being planned to run between England and Sweden, will be the longest in the world. A tremendous ferry boat with engines furnishing about 22,000 horse-power is to travel daily between the two countries, bearing upon its huge decks freight trains 45 cars in length. Besides this there will be provisions for taking travelers from the first to the fourth class, together with dining rooms, promenades and other agreeable features. The journey requires 33 hours. After arriving on land the freight train at once proceeds upon the English or Swedish tracks, as the case may be. It is obvious that a tremendous saving both in time and in labor can be thus accomplished.

New Pictures by Radio.

"Very interesting and very important," is the way Marconi recently expressed himself regarding the transmission of photographs by radio. It appears that several systems of this kind are being worked out at present. "I had not followed the experiment," but I know it can be done," continued Marconi. "Pictures were sent over telegraph wires several years ago, and what can be done by wire can be done by wireless. It will be of great interest to watch the progress made. The two chief uses to which the discovery can be put are the quick transmission of photographs for newspaper and police purposes."—Scientific American.

VIENNA FOLK DEMAND GROUND

Want Title to Government Land They Have Been Cultivating in Small Plots.

Vienna.—Cultivators of the garden plot allotments on government land near this city are agitating to secure title to their holdings.

There are about 60,000 of these plots, each of about 500 square feet, on the slopes of the great Vienna forest, and the cultivators have organized to get title and permission to build huts.

While expressing its sympathy with them, the government officials replied to a great demonstration held the other day that they were opening up the whole question of land expropriation, a delicate issue between two dominant parties, and one on which the demonstrators themselves are divided when it comes to applying it to private estates.

What They Mean.

Some folks complain that the best they get out of life is the worst of it, when what they really mean is that they think the worst life ought to give them is the best of it.

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad complexion or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nights for a week. See how much better you feel and look.

Repairing Store Building.
G. L. Packer, successor to W. L. Wellman, has built an addition to the north side of the building, to be used as a storehouse. When this is completed, he will make many improvements to the interior of the store, making a most attractive, up-to-date place where to do business.

League Plans to Buy Property.
The Dutchmen's league members in this vicinity held a meeting in the Community hall on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 8, and it was voted to buy the milk station near the depot at a certain sum named by the members. A committee was appointed to have papers of incorporation made, which was done on Friday. A purchasing committee was also appointed, which held a conference with the owners of the property, but no further business has been transacted so far as reported.

Westcott and Children Improving.
Many friends in this village and in Onondaga of Harvey Westcott will be glad to know that he and his two sons are improving after two weeks' critical illness of influenza. They are under the care of Dr. Frank Stiles and a trained nurse from Cooperstown.

BELOVED WESTFORD WOMAN.

Mrs. Herbert R. Webster died Monday, After Long Illness.

Westford, Jan. 10.—Louisa Fanny Cox, wife of Herbert R. Webster, died at her home near this village Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, after an illness of about four years. Although about the house for the greater part of the time, it has long been realized by her friends that her illness was mortal one. In spite of her sufferings, which must at all times have been severe, she showed a patience and endurance not often seen.

Mrs. Webster was born at Newfield, Tompkins county, in January, 1852. She was the elder daughter of George W. and Frances (Wager) Cox, both her parents belonging to old and influential families of that county. She was married in February, 1904, to Herbert Roseboom Webster, and their home had since been in the old Webster homestead, where her husband was born.

She was a woman of a very kind and sympathetic disposition and has borne with fortitude the illness and bereavements that have come upon her. She has lost several children, three of whom, two boys and a girl, succumbed within one week to influenza, two years ago.

Mrs. Webster is survived by her husband, and three children, Frances, aged 12, and Ira and Irene, twins, aged 6; also by one brother, Seaborn Wager Cox of Newfield, whose wife, formerly Asenath Webster, is the only sister of Mrs. Webster.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but the interment will take place in the family plot in Westford village. The sorrowing family will receive the sympathy of many friends in Onondaga county and in her birthplace, where alike she was highly respected.

HAVE BRIEF SPAN OF LIFE

Most Placer Mining Camps Flourish for a Little While and Then Pass Into Oblivion.

Exceptions to the rule governing mining camps, hectic activity and quick decay, are Helena, site of a one-time noted placer camp, and the fine city of Denver, where, in the summer of 1833, James H. Pierce panned out a little gold from a sandbar near the mouth of Cherry creek, a discovery that fired the expectations of thousands and started the historic rush to Pike's peak country.

The fine and progressive city of Lewiston, Idaho, is another exception to the rule of oblivion that has been the almost unending fate of placer camps. While, strictly speaking, Lewiston was not a placer camp, but the outfitting point, at the head of steamboat navigation, for the stampede into the clear-water region, in the early '40s, it was a placer camp in other respects, and in the wild spirit of early-day mining.

With the sailing away of the steamship Victoria, bearing 350 Norse residents, most of whom announced their purpose never to return, the brooding spirit of melancholy came in with the long, long winter. Again the "woofs long howl" is heard on Ounashee's lonely shore, and the little remnant of population is left with memories and disappointed hopes. Yet a few will cling to the deserted beach to the last breath of life, for such is the unending record of every famous camp, to live over again in memory, through the long arctic nights, the stirring scenes of 20 years ago.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Machine Softens Leather.

Working leather by the various processes known as graining, boarding and staking, ordinarily a laborious manual operation, is now accomplished by mechanical means with a machine designed by a Massachusetts inventor. Two broad belts, running on rollers, are so mounted that faces traveling in opposite directions are arranged one above the other, a short distance apart. The hide to be softened is laid on a metal plate and inserted between the belt faces, the upper belt then being pressed down by a lever.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

New Glove-Cleaning Device.

A Massachusetts inventor has devised a glove-cleaning machine which is somewhat like an ice cream freezer. The soiled gloves are dropped into gasoline or other cleaning fluid and whirled around by a perforated blade through which the liquid is forced. After the handle has been turned about three minutes the gloves may be taken out spotless.

U.S. WAR POSTERS EXCEL IN VIGOR

Interesting Collection on Exhibition in England.

PICKED UP IN MARY LANDS

Most Medals Issued During War and Nearly Every Odd Thing Produced Are Shown—Medal Section Probably More Important Than Any Other—Hate Characteristic of German Production.

A unique collection of war curios is on exhibition at Manchester, England, owned in its entirety by Mr. Frankenhuis of Holland, who throughout the war industriously gathered "trifles" which are now intensely interesting.

Mr. Frankenhuis acquired specimens of most of the medals issued in the belligerent countries, of plaques made in Germany to stimulate the war spirit among families, and of pictorial posters and proclamations that at one time or another disfigured the walls of European and American cities—indeed, nearly every odd thing that the war spirit produced, as propaganda or as inspiration, is represented in the exhibition. Mr. Frankenhuis will give the proceeds to St. Dunstan's, the home for blinded soldiers.

"Posters That Flame." The rich variety of medals probably makes the medal section more important than any other; but the eye of the casual visitor is first attracted to the posters that flame, in national groups, over the glass cases containing medals. It would seem that if any set of posters deserves to survive rather longer than the rest they are the ones which were first hung in the streets of Paris.

Nearly all the German posters on view were obviously meant to inspire rather than to infuriate. The head of Hindenburg, done massively, or the figure of a bluejacket backed by a nine-inch gun are the same sort of thing that most arms of the British service discovered to be useful in an unsensational way for getting recruits. Occasionally some more ambitious poster—showing perhaps a pale, mad face backed by flames—stands out with rather ghastly effect, but in general the German idea of a war poster seems to have been not unlike the British. They conform more closely to artistic principle, but they have less humor.

Neither the British nor the German posters can compare with the American for vigor. The silhouette of a hand done in blood red and called "The Hun, His Mark" is as outright a piece of poster work as the exhibition contains, and scarcely balanced by the injunction to "blot it out with Liberty bonds."

In the Australian posters there is also a forthrightness of expression which it is interesting to compare with the French trick of saying the same thing differently.

The Italian posters are decidedly heroic. Among the proclamations there is none more tragic than one of the original sheets appearing in Brussels with the announcement that Nurse Cavell had been put to death.

Medals by Goetz and Lindl. Among the medals are many which the British public is not acquainted, although they were first struck off in England. But both Englishmen and Americans are inclined to pass hurriedly over these to turn to the statistical medals of Goetz and Lindl, of which Mr. Frankenhuis has a magnificent collection.

While the war was going on both these designers put their skill powerfully into say kind of propaganda that happened to be needed, but in 1913 Goetz left his admirers in no doubt as to his new convictions. There is exhibited the head of a German eagle which he did. The beak of the eagle is closed by a padlock. On its head stands the tree of liberty, around which are dancing figures. The eagle's head is crowned with a large crowd of people, and in the foreground a male figure is destroying the emperor's helmet. France lifts the eagle's foot, and English extracts from it a claw. On the reverse the satirist turns his weapons against Bolshevikism. The Germans were without rivals in the art of carrying hatred into their grotesque life. Their plaques have a grotesque inscription that would have made them unendurable to a people which takes its hates so lightly as the British, or which likes them expressed so finely as the French.

EFFECT OF MIND ON BODY

Worry, Doubt, Fear and Apprehension Make the Physical Organism Susceptible to Disease.

Since all of the cells of the body are more or less intelligent and we think not only with the brain but with the entire physical organism, we can readily see that our thoughts and convictions must affect, according to their nature, all of these cells. We can think health into them or we can think disease.

What have you been telling these little cell minds in your body, my friend? Have you been filling them with worry and anxiety regarding your health, with fear, with dread, with apprehension? Have you been filling them with doubts, with uncertainties, doubt of your ability, lack of faith, lack of self-confidence? When they are apparently sick, perhaps the victims of your negative thoughts, your discouraging moods, your despondency, are you going to think into them more despondency, more discouragement, more hopelessness, or are you going to stimulate them with hope, faith, confidence, expectancy of better things to come? Are you going to radiate health into them, optimism, joy?—Orison Swett Marden, in Chicago Daily News.

Holland's Day of State.

Although the Dutch are very democratic they still cling to the pageantry that surrounds the movements of their queen on days of state. A case in point being the opening day of their parliament, which is quantity ceremonial. The queen rides in a gilded carriage through the streets of The Hague to the old Knights' hall in Parliament square, and with crown on her head and her gold-braided prince consort at her side sits on the throne. At this ceremony the Dutch cabinet ministers are clad in traditional to wear giddy uniforms resembling an old-time minstrel man in an admiral's hat. After this one day of pomp the ministers and members of parliament put on their working clothes and get down to business, while the queen, who prides herself on being a typical Dutch woman with domestic tastes, lays her crown aside for another year.

"Flivver" Airplanes.

From time to time a photograph appears, depicting a new airplane of compact dimensions and equipped with a low-power engine. Such airplanes are generally hailed as "everybody's" airplane and the coming "flivvers" of the air. Yet an examination of these machines soon discloses the fact that they are of little practical value. They are too small to be steady in flight, too low-powered to fly under moderately adverse conditions, too flimsy to last long and, taking it all in all, absolutely worthless for serious work of any kind. They should generally be treated as novelties, except in rare instances.—Scientific American.

Ben Franklin Highly Commends Braslau Concert at Normal Friday Evening

The following letter has been received by Mrs. David Mills from Ben Franklin, manager of musical events in Albany, Schenectady, and Troy, commending the Sophie Braslau concert at the Normal school auditorium Friday evening of this week:

My dear Mrs. Mills:
 I'd be very glad to learn how things are going for your concert, and if there is anything that I can do to aid you in the proposition. You are in for a rich treat in the work of Miss Braslau, and I am glad that you accepted the opportunity.

Yours very truly,

Ben Franklin.

While of course one could wish easily to hear Miss Sophie Braslau with the gorgeous setting of the Metropolitan opera at her back, there is still reason to be thankful that this finest of America's young contraltos will come to us in a concert of songs and bits of opera on Friday evening, Jan. 12.

UNJUSTLY CRITICISED

Officer O'Dell Had No Accurate Description of Boreas When He Escaped.

The article in The Star of Saturday relative to the attempted rape and the possibility that it was committed by Boreas did Officer O'Dell an injustice, resulting in some criticism of his course in the matter.

It should be recalled at the outset that the girl was able to give only a very meagre description of the offender, so that the officers had little to guide them. The more accurate description of Boreas and his clothing was secured long after he had gotten away. Officer O'Dell had little information and when he found the stranger (to him) under the Main street viaduct late in the afternoon the only thing that aroused his suspicions was the man's size. The officer did not take him into custody or intimate that he was wanted. He simply inquired of him if a certain party resided near there and if he knew him. The stranger replied that he could not answer the questions, but perhaps his brother-in-law could and then asked him into a nearby house.

The man must have divined the situation. Officer O'Dell, however, it being dark under the viaduct, could not see the man's features and gladly availed himself of the opportunity to get the man in the house under the lights. Once inside the house the fellow, not finding the man, said he would step into the room where his sister was in bed, presumably to ask her. He at once beat it out through another door from the sick room and was gone.

Later it was learned that the man was undoubtedly the one sought and an accurate description of him was secured and the search commenced.

President Limore, of the police commission, is authority for the above statements and is confident that no criticism should be passed upon O'Dell in the matter.

LET ALL GET OUT AT SMOKER

First Big Meeting of Chamber of Commerce Reorganization Campaign Tomorrow Night

The first big public meeting of the Chamber of Commerce reorganization campaign now well under way, will be the community get-together and smoker to be held in Municipal hall at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. With the great increase of interest in this movement to build for Oneonta a modern civic-commercial organization on a par with those of other progressive cities of the country, there is every indication that the meeting will be the best attended gathering of citizens, held in a long time.

Dr. Henry Gaines, Hawn of New York, who has just completed a nation wide trip in which he spoke before many of the biggest Chambers of Commerce in the country on topics of civic import, and is an inspirational speaker of marked ability, will be the principal speaker. John Richardson, secretary of the Herkimer Chamber of Commerce, will bring neighborhood greetings from the Mohawk valley. David C. CO-OPERATION.

Today Chambers of Commerce are centers for civic activities, the means by which the interests of the community are put under the supervision and criticism of the leading men in the community, the men whose activity and power should be organized. You must infuse into yourselves and your Chamber of Commerce a spirit of co-operation. It you would make the Chamber of Commerce useful to the public."

STRONIGAN INQUEST TODAY

Coroner Sullivan to Hold Public Inquiry at Kortright Station.

Interest in the Stronigan murder case was renewed yesterday when Coroner G. W. Sullivan of Delhi announced that he would conduct in Doonan's hall at Kortright station today an inquest into the conditions surrounding the Kortright farmer's death. According to current reports, about 50 witnesses have been summoned to appear today, and much new light is expected to be shed on the mystery.

A new one of the many rumors that have cropped up since the body of Stronigan was found in his barn on Christmas eve, was heard yesterday—this to the effect that a shotgun had been found in the well on the Stronigan farm. The sheriff's office at Delhi, however, had received no confirmation of this report and it was regarded simply as another one of the stories that have gained circulation.

For the past few days, there has been little activity at the Stronigan farm, as the authorities have practically exhausted all clues that they have found and believe that little more can be accomplished for the present, by inspecting the premises thereabout. Immediate interest, therefore, centers in the inquest today at Kortright station.

READY FOR BIG CAMPAIGN

Roscoe C. Briggs as Colonel Organizes Regiment of Workers for Bigger and Better Oneonta.

In an atmosphere surcharged with determined optimism, the majors and captains of the team organization in the Chamber of Commerce membership drive, met at the Chamber of Commerce office yesterday afternoon at the call of Colonel Roscoe C. Briggs for the purpose of completing the personnel of the organization. The men who have so cheerfully answered the call to community service in accepting the responsibility of carrying through the most important phase of the campaign, turned out practically 100 per cent strong. The interest of these leaders, who are making many sacrifices in the cause of their city, is a splendid index to their civic spirit and foreshadowing the ultimate success of the movement.

The organization of this regiment that is to carry on the fight for a bigger and better Oneonta is made up as follows:

Roscoe C. Briggs, colonel.
 C. C. Miller, major first division.
 Captains—C. R. McCarthy, Charles J. VanDeusen, Ralph Henderson, I. J. Bookhout.

Leslie Gardner, major second division.
 Captains—E. L. Sellers, Harry C. Bard, Arthur Serbet, Floyd F. Taylor.

Dr. F. H. Marx, major fourth division.

It is planned that the work of pledging five lieutenants to serve under each captain will be completed before the big get-together meeting tomorrow night.

WONDERFUL WOOD CARVING

Unobtrusively, Rafael Louisa has arrived in New York from Colombia to permit American art lovers to view his "three wonders"—a chair, a table and a towering vase. Louisa's wonderful creations of wood created a sensation. Louisa, who is known as the "Artist of the Mountains," was born in Medellin, Colombia, forty-five years ago, and since boyhood has worked as a cabinet-maker, putting his spare time on his masterpieces. Though he gained fame, he did not gain fortune, and today, while his creations are being admired by art lovers, he is working, polishing parts on photograph cabinets in a New York department store.

Most dazzling of the "three wonders" is the amphora, a wooden vase eight feet high, marvelously wrought, from which fall the native flowers of Colombia. It is a wardrobe. The elaborate exterior of walnut, with cunning inlays of ivywood, opens to show inner walls apparently peddled with silken red cedar. You pull out a lower drawer, and there lies a delicately embroidered handkerchief, slightly yellowed, like old lace. The dainty object cannot be picked up—it is of bonewood and hard as a rock. Gloves, stockings and corsets and other articles of women's apparel are there, all carved of orange-wood.

Mr. Boorn for many years has conducted a flourishing flour and feed business at Seward.

Scoring a Success.

Mary Nash in "Thy Name Is Woman," the vivid and colorful Spanish melodrama which William A. Brady is presenting at the Playhouse, New York, is duplicating in that play the sensational personal success she won in London when overnight her brilliant performance in "The Man Who Came Back" became a matter of international interest. During the holiday week Miss Nash gave daily matinees of "Thy Name Is Woman" at the Playhouse, a total of 12 performances for the week, to the largest receipts in the history of that theatre.

Enjoyable Meeting.

Last evening the Young Ladies' Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Frank Caughey of Central avenue. The meeting was led by Mrs. Anna Pierce and consisted of a short program. Following the program a delightful social hour was spent and light refreshments were served after which all departed, expressing an enjoyable evening.

It's economy to get the best when it's Otego coffee. The price of this delicious beverage is within the reach of all; but its deliciousness places it on the table of those who never consider cost.

R. J. Woods—Who Spent Large Part of Life as Circus Driver, Dies of Pneumonia—Faithful Employee of Home Furnishing Company for 15 Years.

R. J. Woods, for the past 15 years an employee of the Home Furnishing company and a man well known about the city, died yesterday at 7:15 o'clock at his home, 9 Mulholland street, East End, after a long illness of pneumonia. His funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the funeral parlors of Bookholt & Park on Broadway at 100. Dr. B. H. Johns, pastor of the First Methodist church, will officiate and burial will be in the Park cemetery.

Mr. Woods was born in Somerset, Pa., on September 14, 1875, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Woods, and died at the age of 45 years. For the next 25 years he spent practically all of his life working with a number of different circuses. For most of this period he was a driver of parade wagons, and after his residence in Ontario, many persons heard him tell stories of his experiences with the "big show." Twenty-five years in this life, it is said that Mr. Woods saw much of the world and the story of his career would be an interesting one to read. He did require volumes of books. When in a reminiscent mood, he was heard with delight as he unfolded the stories of his visit to this or that town, and of the many exciting events that were associated with circus life, the dream of every boy.

At the close of the nineteenth century, Mr. Woods decided that he had seen enough of the world, so in 1890 he came to Ontario and settled down to spend the rest of his life. A year after coming here, he married Mrs. Mae Clouse. He took employment with A. J. Bookhout and up to the time of his death was still with the same firm, although under Mr. Bookhout's son, I. J. Bookhout. Instead of driving a circus wagon, however, he manned a motor truck and also assisted about the store of the Home Furnishing company. The many friends he made during his residence here will learn with regret of his passing. He was an industrious and honest citizen, and respected by all. For many years he had been active as a fire fighter, being a member of the Veterans Firemen's organization and was also with the call department.

Besides his widow, Mr. Woods is survived by five sons, Royal, Matthew, James and Francis of this city, and Elmer Woods, who when last heard

SEEK PACT ON EX-CONVICTS

America and Uruguay Plan Reciprocal Aid for Persons Discharged From Jail.

Montevideo.—Robert E. Jeffery, the American minister here, is negotiating with the Uruguayan foreign office for a reciprocal convention for humanitarian services to be given to persons leaving jail in both countries after completing their terms of imprisonment in accordance with a project formulated by the national prison committee of New York.

Under this convention the Uruguayan authorities would communicate to the United States immigration department the egress from Uruguayan prisons of all American citizens and the prison committee of New York would procure their repatriation and obtain work for them so they can be reformed.

When a Uruguayan citizen left a United States prison, similar action would be taken.

Her Gift.

A young woman was interested in charity work and in one family where she visited there was a little girl whose hair was the same shade as her own. Wishing to show her appreciation for the visitor's kindness, the child called at her house one day and gave her a package, saying it was a little present for her, then ran away. On opening it out fell the child's lovely braids—the only thing she had in abundance.

Make Up Your Mind to Keep Free From Colds—Get Your Blood in Good Condition

START TAKING PEPTO-MANGAN

Now Is the Time to Build Up—You Will Be Strong This Winter

Every house has a supply of fuel for winter. People know cold weather is coming. They get ready for it.

How many people get their own bodies ready for winter? Most of us go around all summer in the intense heat burning up energy, working hard all day and sometimes lying awake at night, sleepless in the heat.

Winter comes along. It catches many people totally unprepared physically. Few of us take stock of our health. Whether we will be well, healthy and strong, we often leave too much to chance.

But not everybody. Nowadays people are learning. They know this matter of enjoying good health is a thing they can help control. If you live right, eat right, get plenty of sleep, breathe fresh air and keep your blood in good condition, you will be all right.

It is so simple. If you feel a little off in health—perhaps worn out and pale—don't take chances. There's no need of it. But some Pepto-Mangan of your drugist. Begin taking it today. You can get it in liquid or tablet form. Tell your drugist which you prefer. But be certain that you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan; ask for it by the full name—Gude's Pepto-Mangan. Look for the name "Gude's" on the package.—Advertisement.

HAS LIVELY EVENING

Alleged Thief Leaps 40 Feet and Lands on Auto.

Then He Tries to Take 30-Foot Plunge to Railroad Tracks, but Policeman Gets Him.

New York.—This is how Alex Crbanoff, twenty-six, an unemployed tailor, accused of having robbed a woman of her pocketbook containing $20, spent an evening.

First returned the purse containing the money at the Bridge Plaza elevated station in Long Island city, where he is accused of purloining it, when his alleged victim confronted him.

Ran when his accuser, Mrs. Mary Howell, of 322 Crescent street, screamed for the police.

Leaped from the end of the station platform to the tracks.

Made record speed for four blocks when pursued by a special policeman and a crowd of men.

At a point over the Diagonal street viaduct he almost ran into an approaching train.

To save himself he leaped 40 feet for the street.

He landed on top of a swift passing automobile and was bounced off to the roadway.

He saw Mounted Patrolman Kavanaugh coming toward him, ran to the railing of the viaduct and was about to leap to the tracks of the Long Island railroad, a distance of 40 feet, when he was intercepted.

Taken to Hunter's Point police station he was finger-printed.

Suffering from shock and other injuries, he was removed to St. John's hospital.

Here he was found to have sustained a bad injury to his left leg and shoulder and possibly internal injuries.

Simple Filter to Clean Oil.

As a means of separating dirt, metal dust, etc., from used oil, the filter which may be made in the following manner will be found very efficient: Fasten a piece of muslin or cotton cloth to a metal or wooden ring large enough to fit over the top of a can, drum or other vessel. The cloth should be left a little slack and into the shallow bag so formed a quantity of sawdust is placed. The oil to be filtered is poured through and leaves its foreign matter behind in the sawdust.

The First Sauce.

Who made the first sauce? Were the Chinese the pioneers in this as in so many other things? At one of the many Celestial restaurants now springing up in London I was given a card with my dinner, in which the brown and mysterious but not unappetizing condiment—served in small saucers—was described as "the oldest sauce in the world." It is in truth the ancestor of Worcester, Yorkshire and all those other liquid inseparables of the beefsteaks and chops of old England!—Correspondence of London Chronicle.

Ship Swallows Eel; Ferry Service Stops

Portsmouth, N. H.—The good ship Alice Howard swallowed an eel recently and ferry service between Kittery, Me., and this city was stopped until its throat could be cleared. All marine doctors of the port were called into consultation before the trouble was diagnosed as digestive and traced to the injector. There it was found the pipes were clogged. Eels were drawn and a large eel was found coiled in the feed tank.

ONE CAN'T BE TOO CAREFUL

His Friend's Deafness Came Very Near Getting Innocent Man Into Quite Serious Trouble.

Capt. Sutton Rutherford, the new polo star, said at Chevy Chase last month:

"I wonder what the maximum price of whisky will be under prohibition? It soars and soars and, really, to be offered a drink today is a high compliment."

Captain Rutherford smiled.

"The question of treating," he continued, "has a humorous side, too."

"A friend of mine whispered anxiously to me the other day at a club:

"There goes Rogers! I try to avoid him nowadays, for he is becoming deaf than ever, and it is dangerous to accost him. Recently I hailed him with:

"Fine day, Rogers," and he smiled and answered:

"Will I heker? Sure, Mike! Lead me to it!"

"And blest if a passing prohibition-enforcement officer didn't arrest us both on suspicion."

Relief in Pictures.

Following an idea which first developed in France, pictures have been printed which, when viewed through spectacles, appear in stereoscopic relief. The object pictured is first photographed from two points like an ordinary stereoscopic view. Then the two pictures are printed in two complementary colors nearly but not quite overlapping. The glasses of the viewing spectacles are also of complementary colors corresponding to those used in the printing, and when the picture is seen through these glasses, it stands forth with startling appearance of solidity.

SPENT MONEY FOOLISHLY

"I have been a great sufferer from stomach trouble and gall stones. No one knew the pains I have suffered. Since taking the first dose of May's Wonderful Remedy I am feeling fine. I can work all day. I don't think I want. Have no more distress or palpitation of the heart from gas on my stomach. I have spent a great deal of money on doctors and medicine but got nothing to help me. It is a simple, less preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and also the inflammation which causes indigestion, flatulence, and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Miller-Strong Drug company."

TAKES SKILL TO CUT DIAMONDS

Methods of Turning the Rough Stones into Brilliantly Explained by Expert.

WORLD WAR PUT PRICES UP

But They Are Being Bought and Displayed in This Country More Than Ever Before—Very Few Are Perfect.

New York.—Diamonds as coveted gems and ornaments have lost none of their popularity. Since the late war many persons who never possessed these brilliant are wearing them today, even though they cost more than formerly. Few persons realize the skill it takes to cut and polish diamonds for the market.

"Diamonds as they are found in the rough state," Herbert P. Whitlock, curator of the department of mineralogy at the Museum of Natural History, said, "are not impressive. They have none of the magical flashes of light which in the polished stone makes them unique among the noble family of gems. And it is here that a goodly part of the price of diamonds is accumulated. For the art of turning a rough diamond into a polished brilliant is a long process requiring a superlative degree of skill. There is no better way to appreciate this than to follow the diamond from the mine to the jeweler and see for ourselves just what happens to it."

"When the diamonds are recovered from the mine they are not by any means all of them clear and colorless, as a self-respecting diamond should be; indeed, only about 25 per cent of the stones found are without some faint color."

"So we find that at the beginning of its travels the diamond is introduced to the sorter. The sorter is a kind of super-expert on diamonds, whose eye has been trained through years of practice to detect the slightest variations in color of diamonds and to find flaws in the stones with an ease which is little less than uncanny."

Sorting the Diamonds.

"The first consideration in sorting diamonds is the adaptability of the stone for cutting. Let us assume that the stone whose travels we are following is sorted into the grade known as 'close goods,' comprising flawless crystals from which faceted brilliants can be cut, or, to use the trade term, 'made.' These usually have eight sides or facets (triangular in shape). Next comes a re-sorting of the 'close goods' into eight grades, ranging from blue white, which comprises the finest quality stones, to yellow and brown, which are so badly off color as to be unfit for gems."

"If our stone has passed the critical test of the sorter and is placed in one of the higher grades, it is weighed, wrapped up in a parcel with others of its kind, a price per carat is assigned to it and it is sold to a diamond dealer and ultimately finds its way to the workshop of the diamond polisher. Here at the hands of a highly skilled workman it is destined to be turned into a gem fit to grace beauty or opulence."

"Most of this is done in Holland, and especially in Amsterdam, which, since the Fifteenth century, has been famous for this industry."

"The surface irregularities, together with any superficial flaws, are first split away from the stone. . . . Sometimes when the stone is large it is of advantage to saw it into two or more pieces so as to save as much as possible of the weight in cut diamonds."

"Brutling" the Stones.

"The rough shaping of the diamond is done through an operation called 'brutling' which consists of wearing away the corners by rubbing one stone against another. This was formerly a manual process, the two diamonds being mounted on sticks held in either hand by the lapidary. But even in the ancient and conservative art of diamond cutting some mechanical improvements have crept in, and now in most of the shops a rapidly turning spindle takes the place of one of the hand sticks."

"Having rough-shaped our diamond, we now come to the finishing operation, the producing of the facets which give brilliancy and sparkle to it and which is technically known as polishing. The holder of the stone during the polishing consists of a small metal cup on a long stem which is called a dop, and much resembles a tulip. A solder composed of one part tin and three parts lead is placed in the dop and heated until soft. The diamond is then imbedded in the solder with a portion of the stone on which the desired facet is to be cut placed uppermost and almost completely surrounded by the solder."

"The dop is now fastened by means of its stem in a heavy iron arm called the tongs, in such a position as to bring the position of the facet to be cut exactly undermost when it is placed in contact with the polishing wheel or lap. The latter is made of soft iron and turns at the rate of about 2,000 revolutions a minute. Several hours are required to cut one facet, then the stone is readjusted for another one, until all of the 55 little facets in which 'lies the secret of its brilliancy are produced."

What Would He Do With a Million?

Indianapolis.—Arthur C. Newby, who recently inherited a 140-acre farm and $7,000 worth of personal property left by two uncles of Mooreville, has presented the entire estate to the town of Mooreville, the income of which is to be used to erect a memorial to the two men.

SATISFIED WITH SUN DIALS

Men of a Few Generations Ago Did Not Demand Exactitude in the Matter of Time.

John C. Tomlinson of New York has made a specialty of sun dials, and a writer in the New York Post says in an interview with him:

"People used to be less particular about time, of course, than we have grown to be, with our famous exactitude. The old English stage coach left 'at four,' but that meant 'at about four.' Only noon could be depended upon—and that when the sun chose to shine. Clocks did not come into use in Europe until the Thirteenth century. Portable clocks were not invented until toward the end of the Fifteenth, but sun dials were very commonly worn—not set up in gardens merely, as we are accustomed to seeing them now. They were used quite generally in this country until the early part of the Nineteenth century, and even today, where conditions are primitive, they are the reliance of guides and huntsmen. Occasionally they become the timepieces of the British army in uninhabited regions."

"Washington was in the habit of carrying a sun dial, although he possessed many watches. The escutcheon of the United States is copied from an escutcheon upon a sun dial in England belonging to one of Washington's ancestors. Thomas Jefferson was a proficient dialist, and Mr. Tomlinson has two dials made by him; one in 1807, when he was President."

"Clocks were not only long unpopular, but were denounced by the clergy because they are not mentioned in Scripture."

THE BEST TREATMENT FOR PILES HE EVER KNEW

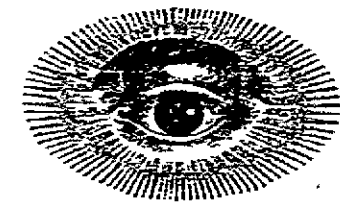

J. W. praises Colac Pile Pills in these words: "Twenty years ago I got bleeding piles. I was operated on but the piles returned. I was in bed when I first took your pills, but in 2 days could return to work and in 2 weeks the piles were completely gone. This was 7 months ago and there is no sign of a return. Colac is the most wonderful remedy I have ever known. J. W., Glens Falls." (Name on request). Hundreds of similar letters on file that show like results with Colac, the wonderful new pill that kills piles quickly, surely, safely, with no bother of suppositories or salves. 60 cents at drugists for a bottle of 40, or 65 cents by mail in plain wrapper from Colac Chemical Co., Inc., Glens Falls, N.
